A collection of Austrian postage stamps from 1953, arranged in rows. The stamps feature various designs, including portraits of historical figures, allegorical figures, and religious scenes. The denominations are visible on the stamps, ranging from 150 to 500. The stamps are arranged in a grid-like pattern, with some rows containing more stamps than others. The designs include figures in traditional attire, religious figures, and allegorical representations. The text "Republik Österreich" is visible on many of the stamps. The denominations include 150, 160, 220, 250, 350, 450, and 500. The stamps are arranged in a grid-like pattern, with some rows containing more stamps than others.
